425 Million Dollar Loan to Britain Is Announced by U. S.

Will Help British Pay for Materials Ordered Prior to Bill

Washington, July 22—(AP)—The Federal Loan Agency announced today t $425,000,000 loan nounced today a $425,000,000 loan mated $500,000,000 worth of collateral, to help the British pay for war supplies ordered in the United States prior to enactment of the lend-lease program.

The loan was authorized by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with the approval of President Roosevelt and at the request of Jesse Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, the agency said in a statement.

The deal was arranged, the statement explained, "for the purpose of providing the Britsih with dollar exchange without having to sell their securities and investments at forced sale."

Funds to the total of $425,000,000 will be paid out to the British at the rate of approximately $100,000,000 a month, under terms of the deal, and the loan, bearing interest at 3 per cent annually will mature in 15 years. It may then be extended to five years provided two-thirds of the principal has been repaid.

Interest and dividends from the collateral securities to be pledged to the RFC, however, plus earnings assigned to it from United States branches of 41 British insurance companies, was described in the statement as adequate to amortize the entire loan by the end of the maturity period.

Authorized by New Law

The loan agency's statement said this new financial assistance to war-harried Britain was authorized under a law enacted last month which specified the RFC could make loans to a foreign government to enable that government to get maximum dollar exchange value for its property in this country.

When the lend-lease program was enacted the British already had piled up huge orders for munitions here. It was said at the time they had funds, securities and other property available to meet those obligations but required lend-lease assistance in supplying future needs.

To turn the securities into dollars, however, meant marketing them in this country. In discussing the loan now authorized, Secretary Morgenthau said recently that conditions on American markets had presented difficulties in this regard and a loan at this time

Sailors' Union On Pacific Coast Seeks Strike Poll

San Francisco, July 22—(AP)—A coastwide strike vote of its 6,000 members was ordered today by the Sailors Union of the Pacific (A. F. L.) in protest, leaders said, against alleged signing of foreign crews at low wages to operate Danish ships recently taken over by the government.

Harry Lundeberg, head of the S. U. P., said the referendum "on whether or not to tie up the entire west coast shipping", will be taken secretly in four successive meetings in Pacific coast ports. This means the vote will not be completed for a month.

The SUP's decision came after Lundeberg reported arrangements had been completed for operation of seized Danish ships under the Panamanian flag, instead of the American flag, and with foreign crews instead of American crews.

Blames State Dept.

"These ships are now American ships," Lundeberg said. "Yet they have already been transferred to Panamanian registry and ordered to sign crews at half the prevailing wages in effect for American seamen. x x x x The decision to operate under the Panama flag with foreign crews was not the companies' decision. They have assured me they were willing to operate the vessels, under the American flag and with SUP crews. The orders to operate on Panama registry, with low-paid foreign crews, came from Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles".

Shipping company officials sad the plan to make use of the Danish ships was still tentative and that move to register the vessels under the Panamanian flag was to avoid complications that might result if they were registered under the American flag.

They said it would be necessary to retain many of the Danish crew members because of the peculiarities of the ships' engines.

National Aluminum Collections Off to Auspicious Drive

All Kinds of Utensils and Gadgets Donated to Defense Drive

(By The Associated Press)

Americans were off to a lighthearted start today on a great national aluminum collection drive, tossing all kinds of shiny gadgets into collection pens in busy city streets and town squares.

The oddments included slot machines ,a cast for a broken finger, and the favorite ice cream mold of Governor Lehman of New York, but skillets, kettles and other utensils from America's kitchens furnished the bulk of the aluminum scrap.

So encouraging, indeed, was the initial response yesterday that defense officials began raising their sights from an original estimate of 20,000,000 pounds in donations to 30,000,000 or possibly 40,000,000 pounds.

At Tacoma, Wash., a man turned up at the mayor's office with seven sacks of aluminum pots and pans which he explained he had purchased in a house to house canvass.

Chicago's new $57,000,000 subway system will be completed without ornamental aluminum trim originally planned for the station walls. Painted concrete will be substituted, the engineers announced.

Quoit Trophy Scrapped

Contributions sorted at Philadelphia included a silver-plated loving cup inscribed: "Given by the German-American Bund; Quoit Tournament, 1937".

When the Rockingham Park racing season opened yesterday at Salem, N. H., more than 8,000 pieces of aluminum were tossed into bins by the opening day crowd.

Jealous Farm Youth Kills Girl and Self

Lapeer, Mich., July 22.—(AP)—A farm youth, apparently jealous over a soldier's attention to his girl friend, shot and killed the girl and then killed himself last night.

Deputy Sheriff Wilbert Mawdesley declared that 19-year-old Harold Waugh shot 16-year-old Ruth Morse twice with a 20-gauge shotgun in anger over her date with a soldier and then turned the gun on himself.

The girl had gone for an automobile ride with a soldier home on leave and Waugh had left a note indicating he had become jealous, Mawdesley said.

Coroner Harry Best ruled it murder and suicide.

Congress' Leaders to Press for Quick Emergency Action

Jubilant in Passage of Seizure Act Monday in Upper House

Washington, July 22—(AP)—Obviously delighted at the senate's approval of a far-reaching property seizure bill after only one day's debate, administration lieutenants strove today to speed action on legislation urged by President Roosevelt to extend the military service period of selectees, National Guardsmen and army reserves.

After a tumultuous session, the property seizure measure was approved on a voice vote late yesterday just as it came from the senate military committee.

Still to be considered by the house, were the military affairs committee arranged to take it up today, the bill would permit the president to take over in the interest of national defense both military and naval articles and the machinery, tools and materials for their manufacture.

But no property could be seized until the chief executive had exhausted other means of obtaining it, and owners would have to be paid fair compensation.

Free-for-all debate on the property bill began immediately after seiate and house clerks had read Roosevelt's message urging congress to "acknowledge this national emergency" and continue in service the army personnel now scheduled to serve only one year.

Declaring that danger to this country was "infinitely greater" than when the draft law was enacted a year ago, Roosevelt asked that the emergency be recognized "either for a specific period or until revocation by the congress or the president".

For Simple Resolution

A formal declaration of emergency by congress would automatically empower the president to order electees, guardsmen and reservists to remain in service indefinitely. Senate leaders indicated, however, that instead of a general emergency resolution they would favor a simple resolution stating that the national interest was imperiled and specifically permitting extension of the service period.

On the house side, soon after the president's message was received, Chairman May (D-Ky) of the military committee introduced one resolution providing for retaining the men in service and another to remove the present selective service act provision—a provision opposed by Roosevelt—limiting to 900,000 the number of selectees who may be inducted in any one year.

Several other methods to accomplish the purpose of gaining extended service were being discussed in various congressional quarters. These included:

Other Methods Discussed

1. Direct amendment of the selective service act to permit retention of the one-year personnel.

2. Legislation designed to avoid compulsory extension but offering selectees, guardsmen and reservists volunteering for extra service a $30 bonus for each month beyond one year.

3. Legislation by which selectees now in service could volunteer for a longer period while

New Regulations for Broadcasting Not Put in Effect

Washington, July 22—(AP)—The Federal Communications Commission today postponed to September 16 the effective date of its new regulations for chain broadcasting.

The regulations had been scheduled to go into effect July 30.

The postponement was requested by the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System. They asked the delay, Chairman James Lawrence Fly of the FCC said, in order to permit more time for the discussions that have been going on recently between the comnetworks.

"The officials and the networks are hopeful that the additional mission and representatives of the time will permit a satisfactory solution of the various problems involved", Fly said.

In addition to postponing all the new regulations to September 16, the commission said two of the regulations may be extended from time to time to permit the orderly disposition of properties.

One of the two regulations will require NBC to dispose of one of its networks, while the other limits its networks to one license in any community.

Home City Plans to Honor World Famous Movie Writer, Critic

Ronald Reagan and His Wife May Accompany Her to Dixon

Dixon is to be host to the world's foremost moving picture critic and writer and a former resident on Monday, Sept. 15, when Louella O. Parsons and her family, of Hollywood, Calif., will be here for "Louella Parsons Day." At a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office today preliminary plans were outlined for the event, which is planned to be the most outstanding in Dixon's history.

For several weeks negotiations have been under way to secure a date on which the famous critic and writer and possibly other movie notables, could be in Dixon for such an event, and this was decided late yesterday in a long distance telephone message when Louella Parsons stated that she had arranged to absent herself from the Hollywood studios to visit her former home town of Dixon on Sept. 15. She will be accompanied by her family and efforts are being made to secure the presence of Ronald "Dutch" Reagan, also a former Dixonite and Warner Bros. motion picture star; his equally famous wife, Jane Wyman and their family and possibly other stars of the screen world.

Knack General Chairman

President Walter Knack, was selected as general chairman, to be assisted by N. H. Kaiserman as co-chairmen who were named today, mittee. These with various other chairman who were named today, will select the balance of their committee members later.

The tentative plans indicated that Louella Parsons Day will surpass any event ever staged in Dixon including the centennial celebration. While the program is only partially completed, the indications point to a reception for a famous Dixon daughter which will form a new chapter in the city's history.

Among the activities planned for the day is a public banquet to be held in the evening with the honored guests in attendance, and a grand ball at Dixon's new armory. Mayor William V. Slothower was named chairman of the banquet committee and the plans for the ball will be in the hands of the Junior Association of Commerce with President Lyle Myers as chairman.

The Wa-Tan-Ye club of this city was selected to arrange the decorations for the banquet hall.

"Big Developments" Imminent in Orient Great Britain Says

Tokyo Papers Full of Dispatches From "Greater Asia"

(By The Associated Press)

Tokyo, July 22—The Japanese press, which often reflects official opinion, charged today that Chinese, British and Free French forces were prepared to invade French Indo-China and carried an unusually heavy mass of other dispatches concerning that territory which is listed in Tokyo's "Greater East Asia" program.

Not in weeks has there been so much copy in the newspapers concerning French Indo-China, in which Japan won three air bases last fall, and her neighbors at the southeast tip of the continent. Datelines were Hongkong, Hanoi and Saigon.

(The German wireless carried a Tokyo dispatch stating a government spokesman had no confirmation so far of "reports from Saigon, according to which British troops had invaded southern Indo-China or are preparing an invasion."

("Measures would be taken immediately if such a violation of Indo-Chinese territory should occur since the pact between France, French Indo-China and Japan is aimed at preventing such an eventuality," the Berlin radio quoted.

(It said Tokyo papers particularly stressed "rumors regarding a secret military agreement between Great Britain and the De Gaulle group with the Chungking government." Efforts by British and United States diplomats to form a united front with Moscow and Chungking against Japan also were charged.

New York's Battle Lines Now Drawn

New York, July 22.—(AP)—New York's political battle lines were drawn today with Mayor F. H. LaGuardia seeking a third term in office and one of the nation's best known crusading prosecutors, William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn, representing the opposition.

The busy mayor, dividing his time between New York and his Washington office as Director of Civilian Defense, announced his candidacy in a radio talk last night night with the avowed support of the Fusion party that sent him to city hall in 1933 and 1937 and the American Labor party.

He declared he definitely would not enter the Democratic primary against O'Dwyer but let it be known that he would accept the Republican nomination provided the GOP endorsement also was given to his present City Controller, Joseph D. McGoldrick, and City Council President Newbold Morris.

Thus, while the way still was clear for the Republicans to nominate a third candidate, political observers considered that course unlikely and looked upon LaGuardia and O'Dwyer as the final opponents for election after uncontested primaries.

Moscow on Fire, Germans: Raids Harmless, Reds

The War Today!

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Telegraph Special Service)

With the continuance of the fierce nazi pressure against the Russian battle line we would seem to be nearing rapidly a crucial operation which will give us a better gauge of the efficiency of the Red military organization and the accuracy of the persistent German claim that the bolshevist army is on the point of dissolution.

I refer to what looks like the impending necessity of widespread Russian withdrawals for the purpose of straightening their vast line and the reforming of fresh defenses farther east—a movement which represents one of the most difficult that any high command can undertake.

The developing of such a great retirement will present the nazis with the opportunity for offensives which might easily turn an orderly strategic withdrawal into a debacle unless it be carried out with consumate skill. Thus the outcome of the Russo-German war must depend on whether the Red army can retain its mobility—and its morale.

While the bolshevists have been doing a magnificent job of holding their lines against superior German strength, it would be too much to expect that this defense could continue along the present front. We have the great salient thrust into the center of the Russian line. To the grave danger of the defense: the nazi drive against Leningrad has created the threat of a turning movement on the northern end of the line; and just now on the southern part of the front the Germans are making a swift thrust down the Dnieper river which is calculated to cut off a large Russian force.

Meanwhile the Germans continue sweeping claims of widespread destruction of Red fighting units, even up to the size of a division of 15,000 men. This is being achieved by the use of swiftly driving tank units which encircle bodies of Russian troops and hold them in this steel trap while the hell-diving nazi bombers slaughter them or force their surrender.

In this manner the invaders are carrying out their announced purpose of destroying the Red army. And the way the fighting is going it's apparent that the nazis are, as they claim, more bent on this grim and bloody business than on the capture of cities. The fall of the cities will be automatic if the fighting men are wiped out.

So, taking it all in all, it is reasonable to assume that it won't be long before the Russians will be thrown back, or have to withdraw to new lines. Fresh troops

Militiamen To Get Shoes, Drill Suits

Adjutant General Leo M. Boyle said Monday army type shoes for members of the Illinois Reserve Militia would be distributed this week to units of the reserves throughout the state.

On order, Boyle said, are 6,000 oversuits to be worn by militia members for weekly drills instead of their regular uniforms. The drill suits will be distributed later.

Other equipment purchased for the militia includes 500 steel helmets, 500 wool overcoats, 500 raincoats, 300 gas masks, and 500 canvas cots. Six thousand rifles previously were delivered to militiamen.

Boyle said the militia personnel now exceeds 5,000 officers and men.

Hitler Command Relates Stout Resistance

(By The Associated Press)

German luftwaffe pilots reported they left great fires raging in the heart of Moscow today, while in the field the nazi high command asserted that the leadership of Russia's Red armies was crumbling under the impact of the month-old blitzkrieg invasion.

DNB, the official German news agency, said that nazi warplanes also blasted retreating soviet troop columns, railway lines and tank concentrations along the entire eastern front and that a number of trains on the Leningrad-Moscow line were derailed by bombings.

While the Germans declared Moscow was hard hit by thousands of incendiary and high-explosive bombs, showered down in a five and one-half hour raid during the night, dispatches from the soviet capital itself said the assault was "comparatively harmless".

Berlin described the raid as "one of the heaviest carried out by the German air force", comparable with the luftwaffe's fiercest attacks on Engiand.

Claim Defense Broken

On the fighting front, Adolf Hitler's high command asserted that nazi break-through operations "have torn the soviet defense into a number of disconnected groups".

"Despite stout local resistance and stubbornly conducted counterattacks, uniform leadership of the enemy no longer is apparent", the German communique said.

"On the entire east front, operations aiming at the crushing and destruction of individual groups of the soviet armed forces continue steadily".

In comparison with previous communiques, the nazi high command's mention of both "stout" resistance and "stubborn" soviet counter-attacks indicated that Hitler's invasion armies were finding the going rough.

The high command declared that the attack on Moscow was "in retaliation for bolshevist air raids on open capitals of the allies

German Air Force Fails in Efforts to Burn Moscow

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, July 22—(AP)—The German air force tried last night to burn out Moscow as it burned out parts of London, but it failed.

From sunset to dawn I watched a squad of Russian home guards toss incendiary bombs off the roofs and put out fires.

The raid over, life surged back through the city in the early morning as though it were noon, when thousands take their mid-day stroll.

The sirens whined just as the setting sun cast a glow in the sky. Then an ominous voice came over the loudspeaker warning everyone to go to their shelters.

I went to the ground floor apartment of my building which is headquarters of the house committee.

An 18-year-old boy who had been watching the roof, soon came into the room with his bare head soaking wet, and his Red shirt open at the throat, rubbing his fireproof gloves.

Found Proof of Story

He said that an incendiary bomb had landed on the roof, but that he threw it into the courtyard. We were skeptical of his story at first, but found evidence in the burned out metal tube about a foot long.

Small bombs were dropped all along the street, which is in a quiet residential quarter far from central and industrial quarters. But only one house was burned.

As the raid continued through the night, watchers on the roofs replaced one another in relays. The automatic telephone continued to function throughout the raid, and the workers kept in constant touch with other nearby headquarters.

Daylight showed that what had seemed in darkness to have been a withering attack, had been, in fact, a comparatively harmless raid.

Man's Footprint Under Bridge Slim Clue in Indiana Auto-Torch Killing

Sullivan, Ind., July 22—(AP)—A man's footprint gave authorities of Sullivan county today a slim clue as to the killer of Lewis Fulte, 38-year-old Lenzburg, Ill. farmer.

Fulte, his head bloodied, was found dead July 10 in his burning automobile on the Carlisle-Pleasantville road 10 miles southeast of Sullivan.

The footprint and the license plates from his car—Illinois 150-2326—were found yesterday beneath a little bridge five miles west of that spot on the same road. There was blood around.

Prosecutor Paul Boyle said Mrs. Clem Willis, living nearby, told of seeing Fulte's automobile pass her home about an hour and a half before his death became known.

A plaster cast was taken from the footprint. Sheriff Hubert Sevier said it had been made by a man wearing a size 10 or 11 shoe.

Flute left home July 8, taking $400. The money was not on his body. Blood lay around the car. The prosecutor said he evidently had been slain in a fight and robbed.

His trail has been traced back through Oaktown, south of here in Knox county, and Nashville, Ill.

Drivers' Licenses of 632 Illinois Motorists Revoked in Six Months

Springfield, Ill., July 22—(AP)—Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes reported today that 632 Illinois motorists' drivers' licenses were revoked for law infractions during the first six months of this year.

Driving while under the influence of liquor was the reason for 626 of the revocations which varied in time limits from ten days to six months. Five revocations were ordered in cases involving a third conviction for reckless driving, and one in connection with a manslaughter case.

Under the financial responsibility act, 941 drivers' licenses were suspended during the first half of the year. Only 200 of this number, Hughes said, have posted proof of financial responsibility.

In addition to the major violations resulting in revocation or suspension of drivers' licenses, 12,770 minor motor vehicle license violations were reported during the six months period. Of these 11,833 were in Cook county.

Drivers' license applications for the six months numbered 98,853.

Many Rough Spots Ahead For Farmer, Townsend Affirms

Director of OADR Makes Address at Midwest Training School

Urbana, Ill., July 22—(AP) — M. Clifford Townsend, director of the office of Agricultural Defense Relations, predicted Monday that "many rough spots are ahead for American farmers".

In an address prepared for the Midwest Farm Bureau Training School on the University of Illinois campus, the former governor of Indiana said:

"Priorities and rationing, which may be expected to increase greatly as our defense program develops, are already affecting poultry equipment, milking equipment, fencing, steel grain bins, tractors and farm machinery generally.

"Nitrates, the basis of explosives and fertilizers for farmers, may be affected soon. Other chemicals and drugs for insectides and fungicides are likely to be short. The shortage of farm labor, the increased cost of things farmers buy, and all of the other things that make up war-time economy should be considered by farmers in planning for the future".

His office, created in the department of agriculture May 5 by President Roosevelt, has decided that "most of our problems" are likely to fall under four general headings—production, farm equipment and supplies, rural labor, and transportation and marketing, Townsend said.

The food-for-defense program is being broadened, Townsend said, by the department of agriculture in an effort to stimulate the production of tomatoes, dried beans and other commodities for canning.

Program Broadened

"The production program also has been broadened to include more soybens for oil; production of a supply of adapted castor bean seed in case we have to supplement our normal imports with domestic castor bean oil, and similar variations to meet the apparent and prospective needs", he said.

Townsend also revealed there have been specific cases of "emergency preference ratings for agricultural needs". Among these, he said, were the granting of emergency ratings on 15,000 tons of sheet steel for coustruction of grain bins and on materials for constructing and repairing canning equipment and machinery.

Measures being considered to ease the farm labor situation, he disclosed, include plans to hire high school and college students for seasonal work and to interchange labor across state lines.

Prof. C. L. Stewart, University of Illinois agricultural economist, asserted that the world has entered a new phase of history— the "air-power" age"—but that it is still dependent upon agriculture.

The training school continues through Thursday under the auspices of the Midwest State Farm Bureaus and the American Farm Bureau Federation, with the University of Illinois and the Illinois Agricultural Association as joint hosts. It is expected that 800 farm bureau leaders and workers will attend.

DANGER REDUCED

Washington, July 22—(AP)—Heavy June rains in most of the corn belt greatly reduced the danger of the chinch bug, the agriculture department reported today.

Earlier this year, surveys had indicated 1941 would be a bad chinch bug year. But the department said well-timed, beating rains caught the pest at its most vulnerable stage and controlled it more effectively than could have been done by any man-made program.

Vaccination Now Recommended for Sleeping Sickness

Urbana, Ill., July 22—Prompt vaccination of horses against sleeping sickness whenever it has been definitely determined that the disease exists in the community is being recommended by the department of animal pathology and hygiene of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

The vaccine recommended for this purpose has been tested at the University of Illinois laboratories and found to be protective. It will provide protection against the disease for about a year. Animals that have been vaccinated during 1941 do not have to be treated again this year, but horses vaccinated in 1940 or 1939 are probably susceptible and should be treated. The new vaccine for sleeping sickness in horses is injected into the skin. The method appears to be superior to the old method of injecting it under the skin, according to the animal pathologists.

Although numerous inquiries concerning the use of vaccination as a protective measure have been received, the pathologists say that no one can correctly predict the extent of the disease this year, although the time for its appearance, late July and August, is at hand. All veterinarians are therefore being urged to watch the situation closely and recommend vaccination on the appearance of the disease in horses.

Since evidence indicates that sleeping sickness is an insect-disseminated disease, the pathologists say it might be advisable to use temporary measures to protect animals against such pests as flies and mosquitoes. Careful daily inspection of horses and prompt calling of the veterinarian are urged to aid in diagnosing and curbing the disease in its early stages. Anti-sleeping sickness serum in large doses is recommended by veterinarians in the early stages of the disease. Good nursing is also important, according to the department of animal pathology and hygiene.

Law on the Farm

Eggs. In 1919 the Illinois legislature passed an act "in relation to the handling and sale of eggs and the manufacture of egg products." This act defines as unfit for human food an egg that is "addled or moldy, that contains black rot, white rot or a blood ring; that has an adherent yolk or a bloody or green white; that is incubated beyond the blood ring stage; or that consists wholly or in part of filthy decomposed or putrid substance."

To help insure consumers that such eggs will not be offered for sale the following provisions are made:

1. It is unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale, or have in his possession with intent to sell, eggs which are unfit for human food.

2. Egg purchasers either for retail or wholesale disposal must candle all eggs offered to them, must refuse to purchase unfit eggs and shall dock producers offering such eggs for sale. Candling must be done in the presence of the producer if he so requests.

3. Unfit eggs, except those with a putrid odor, must be broken and rendered unfit for sale by denaturing. Accurate records of candling and dockage must be maintained by egg buyers.

4. Buyers of eggs for resale must have a license from the State Department of Agriculture.

5. All cases of eggs offered to the retail trade must have a candling certificate placed under the top of the case.

6. Egg breaking establishments offering egg whites or other egg preparations for sale must be licensed by the State Department of Agriculture.

The provisions cited are a part of the state pure foods law and are administered by the State Department of Agriculture.

Ogle Co. Chorus to Sing With Band at Mt. Morris July 26

Other News Notes From Ogle County's Farm Bureau Today

The Ogle county chorus sponsored by the Farm Bureau and Home Bureau and consisting of 25 voices will appear in the band concert program at Mt. Morris on Saturday evening, July 26. The chorus led by Lloyd D. Pfoff of Rochelle with Mrs. Pauline Grant of Polo as accompanist has been preparing some numbers to be sung in the state rural chorus at the state fair. The chorus project is sponsored by the Extension Service of the University of Illinois as an educational program for rural people.

Fifty persons in attendance at the oats variety demonstration meeting on the N. F. Thomas farm operated by Robert Fridley last Friday saw eight varieties of oats growing in strips side by side where they could compare the variety characteristics.

D. E. Warren, farm adviser, pointed out the differences in the varieties and reported the yields in previous tests in Ogle county and DeKalb county. Farmers were interested in knowing how some of the new highly advertised varieties compared with the standard varieties previously in use. Resistance to lodging and to rust and smut were among the desirable characteristics looked for.

The date of the Farm and Home Bureau picnic and sports festival will be Wednesday, August 20 instead of the 13th as previously announced. This decision was made by the committee in charge of events when they found that it was the general feeling of the committee that threshing would not be finished by the previous date. The date is, therefore, definitely changed to August 20 and arrangements will be made to have the grounds and barns cleaned up in time for the fair which opens on August 30. A number of events have been listed by the committee with different persons including members of the rural youth clubs in charge as follows: Old plug race, Dick Whitney, harness race, Clare Bradford, egg tossing, Gavin Cross, wood chopping, Howard Schoonhoben, folk dancing, D. E. warren, tug-o'-war, Max Stuff, bowling, Harlan Blake, horse shoes, Donald Bork, bait casting, Carroll Coffman, target shooting, H. J. Donaldson, chinning contest, James Baker, nail driving, Merle Snodgrass, children's races, Delbert Newcomer, 4-H solt ball, Donald Brown, and all county soft ball, Robert Wolf.

The 4-H club members will exhibit their beef and dairy calves, pigs and lambs for premiums. Judging of the livestock will take place in the forenoon and the sports events will be mostly in the afternoon. Coffee is to be furnished for those who bring their picnic dinners.

Corn Crop Outlook Bright; Yield May Be Best Since 1920

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Reports of a brilliant national corn outlook are flooding the Chicago market these days as the 1941 crop races days ahead of schedule into the vital ear forming period.

Despite the optimistic reports, prices of corn, highest since 1937, have shown little weakness. Widespread demand for feed grains to stimulate output of livestock products in the war-time emergency is having a direct effect on corn, principal feed grain.

At around 74 cents a bushel for best yellow grades in Chicago, corn is selling more than a dime above the rate at which the government offered loans on the 1940 crop. The price also is more than 10 cents higher than a year ago, more than 20 cents higher than two years ago.

Less Corn Under Seal

This has resulted in withdrawal of 1940 corn already placed under loans since producers can more profitably feed it or market it. So far more than 8,000,000 bushels have been redeemed, leaving only about 93,000,000 bushels of the 1940 crop still under seal compared with 300,000,000 bushels of 1939 corn a year ago.

Producers are anticipating near record yields as a result of favorable weather, plentiful moisture and increased planting of high yielding hybrid seed.

Defense Boards Being Set Up In Illinois Counties

Urbana, Ill., July 22—To expedite and coordinate agricultural activities related to national defense, agricultural defense boards are being set up in Illinois and in each of the state's counties, by order of secretary of agriculture, Claude R. Wickard.

Membership of the defense boards comprises a representative from each of the U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies whose services will be called on by the secretary to administer actions necessary to carry out his departmental responsibilities in national defense.

Dean and Director H. P. Rusk, of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, is a member of the state board by reoson of his position as state director of extension work, while members of the county extension service, presumably county farm and home advisers, are made members of the county boards.

Chairman of the Illinois state board is Lee M. Gentry, state AAA chairman, while the chairman of the county AAA committee is defense board chairman in each county. It was explained by Secretary Wickard that key positions in the boards have been given to AAA workers because the major part of the department's defense job involving field work centers on adjustment of farm production, and that helping farmers make adjustments in production is the major job of the AAA.

Agencies whose representatives will serve on the state defense boards include, besides the AAA, the Extension Service, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Farm Security Administration, Soil Conservation Service, Farm Credit Administration, Surplus Marketing Administration, Agricultural Marketing Service, Forest Service, and the Rural Electrification Administration. All of these agencies except the Surplus Marketing Administration, Agricultural Marketing Service and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics will be represented, although not uniformly in every county, on the county defense boards.

AAA Makes 2nd Concession; Reply to Many Protests

Washington, July 22—(AP) — The agriculture department announced Monday provisions whereby farmers who have wheat in excess of their 1941 marketing quotas may seed below their 1942 AAA acreage allotments and obtain permission to sell the over-quota grain without paying the 49-cent-a-bushel penalty.

This permission will be granted by local AAA farmer committees as soon as the 1942 crop is planted. Winter wheat crop seeding usually starts about September 1. Thus producers of excess winter wheat could market such grain this fall.

The amount of excess-quota wheat which a farmer would be permitted to sell would be equivalent to the normal production of that portion of his 1942 allotment not planted to wheat.

For example, a farmer who has a 100-acre wheat allotment and a 10-bushel-per-acre normal yield would be permitted to sell 200 bushels of excess wheat if he reduced his 1942 crop planting to 80 acres. The 200 bushels would be the normal yield on 20 acres.

AAA officials expressed hope this regulation would soften protests of many wheat growers over the marketing quota system under which grain produced in excess of a farmer's quota is subject to a penalty tax of 49 cents a bushel.

35 Million Hogs Needed To Use Up Surplus of Corn

Doubtful If They Will Be Produced Within Next Two Years

Urbana, Ill., July 22—It is unlikely that the 35 million additional hogs needed to use up the surplus corn in the corn belt will be produced in the next two years, according to E. M. Hughes, agricultural economist of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. The largest increase in any two-year period since 1924 was a 22 million one.

Hughes explains that if hogs were increased to the number required to use up corn supplies during the next two-year period assuming normal corn crops, the annual pig crop would be about 95 million head. Last year there were 78 million pigs saved in both the spring and fall crops.

"If a drouth such as we had from 1934 to 1936 should occur again this year, feed supplies would not be more than sufficient to take care of the animals on hand now, to say nothing of increased numbers," Hughes said. "With the possibility of a somewhat smaller carryover of corn on October 1 with assuming a normal crop in 1941, it appears that the total feed supplies on October 1 will be slightly smaller than on October 1, 1940. Naturally, weather conditions can change this greatly.

"Based on a supply of 115 million tons of the four principal feed grain,—corn, oats, barley and grain-consuming animal units than were fed and are being fed out on the 1940 crop to have a normal feed supply per animal. This is based on the average feed supply for each animal from 1924 to 1940, which period is taken as normal.

"Assuming a continued increase of about 3 million head of cattle a year, increases in sheep and chickens and some decrease in horses and mules, it would take about 35 million hogs to use up surplus feed supplies in one year. The longer the period it takes to get the increase in hogs, the greater the increase in other livestock and less hogs will be needed. If the increase were to take place in two years, about 15 to 17 millions more hogs would be needed each year. This would be a larger yearly increase than has occurred in the pig crop at any time since 1924. An equally large increase in yearly pig crops may have occurred during the early twenties, but records are not available for that period. If the prices of other feeds rise relative to corn, it would not take as many hogs to do the job as indicated, because the corn would be fed more generously to livestock."

Hughes explained that, "Marketing of this large quantity of livestock and livestock products at a reasonable price to producers is dependent upon the consumers' demand created by the defense program. At the end of a two to three-year period all livestock numbers will probably be at all-time high levels. A collapse in demand or in the general price level at that time would be a severe blow to the livestock industry.

'Control Gullies By Keeping Water Out of Them'; U. I.

Urbana, Ill., July 22—Keeping water out of gullies is a sure way of controlling them, and this can be done by terracing, explains R. C. Hay, extension agricultural engineer of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. The approaching slack season just after harvest is a good time of the year to do terracing work.

Gullies on cultivated slopes can be starved and eventually eliminated by terracing. The terraces not only slow up and divert run-off water from gullies but also materially reduce sheet erosion losses.

Farmers' experiences and experiments conducted under the supervision of farm advisers and the College of Agriculture show that terraced fields lose only about one-seventh as much soil by erosion as comparable unterraced fields.

Hay explains that water diverted from fields must be handled with care or the formation of gullies at the outlets may result. The best outlets consist of well-sodded natural draws or permanent pastures.

On most farms the first step in terracing consists of establishing wide grass waterways extending nearly to the top of slopes to be terraced. Such waterways will prevent gullying in the draws and, once established, make good terrace outlets.

Terracing and contour farming used together constitute one of five practices being encouraged among Illinois farmers to enable them to get more conservation of physical and human resources. The other practices are the spreading of limestone, seeding of legumes and grasses, tree planting and pasture improvement. Cooperating with the University of Illinois in the program are the various agencies and services of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Farm Bureau Fed. to Fight Inflation as Farm Prices Increase

Urbana, Ill., July 22—(AP)—Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, advocated today the stabilization of industrial prices and wages "to prevent undue inflation".

He estimated that American farm income during 1941 will be increased at least a billion and a half dollars. His speech prepared for the Midwest Farm Bureau Training School on the University of Illinois campus added:

"That will mean that farmers will have virtual equality of purchasing power with other groups for the first time in more than 20 years", he declared.

At least a billion dollars of the increase, O'Neal said, will result from the "high-loan" and Commodity Credit Corporation bills recently passed by Congress.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

It wasn't so long ago that carloads of old roosters could be bought on the open market.

Now, if someone wanted to buy an old rooster, I doubt if he could find a butcher shop that had one. Roosters no longer go through the regular market channels. Practically all of them go directly from the poultry packer to the canning factories, where they are used for chicken soup.

I don't think most people realize what enormous quantities of poultry the soup companies are using. Every year the quantity seems unbelievably large—and the next year they use even more!

They were putting almost all the old roosters in the country into the stew kettles and they still didn't have enough soup to go around. So they started using old hens, too—and they're using more of them every year. I wouldn't be surprised to see most of the old hens going into the commercial soup kettles before very long.

You're getting 5 or 6 cents a pound more for your hens than you were a year ago. Why?

The fact that eggs are bringing such a good price and hens, consequently, haven't been sold as freely as usual isn't the only reason. The soup makers are buying them by the hundred thousand pounds. And it's lucky for us they are, because I don't know where else we'd find a market for them.

Price Relationship Changed

Most restaurants that used to use hens for chicken a la king, chicken salad, etc., are making it out of turkey now. And when women realized they could get a frying chicken for the same price as a stewing chicken they quit buying old hens altogether. I know one group of stores that feature chicken regularly. They're selling around 15,000 chickens a week—and they're all frying chickens. They haven't bought a single stewing chicken this year and, what's more, nobody has even asked for one.

We used to figure that frying chickens were worth 2 to 3 cents a pound more than old hens. But that price relationship doesn't hold any more—for several reasons.

All these chickens—50 or 60 million of them—that are being raised down on the east coast are sold when they're about 13 weeks old—the pullets as well as the cockerels. So there has been an enormous increase in the supply of small springs, without a corresponding increase in the supply of old hens. So that brought the price of spring chickens down and, at the same time, the soup companies' demand for old hens has kept the market up.

If you haven't been able to understand why you can get practically as much for your hens as you can for your young fries, that may help to explain the mystery!

Sincerely yours,

Frank Priebe

James W. Kline and Amboy Girl Are Wed in South

Of interest both here and in the south is announcement of the marriage of James Willis Kline, eldest son of the senior Ray Klines of 115 College avenue, and Miss Eleanor Liston of Amboy, daughter of the late Matthew Listons. The couple's vows were solemnized at 2 p. m. Saturday, July 12, at the Methodist church in Waynesville, N. C., at whose altar the bridegroom's parents were wed, 29 years ago last month.

The Rev. W. L. Hutchins performed the ceremony. Tall vases of white flowers were interspersed with greenery, and floral candelabra held white tapers.

The bride, who chose to be unattended, selected white accessories for her wedding dress of navy sheer. At her shoulder was a corsage of red roses.

The bridegroom's parents, his brother, Robert, other relatives, and a few close friends witnessed the ceremony. Afterward, Mr. Kline's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Massie, were entertaining informally for the bridal pair at their home in Waynesville.

Mrs. Kline, a graduate of Amboy Township high school, is employed as secretary in the office of the Lee County Farmers Farm Loan association at Amboy. The bridegroom was graduated from Dixon high school and is now a private first class with Company A, 129th Infantry at Camp Forrest, Tennessee. Before leaving for Tullahoma, where he is also serving as Company correspondent for The Dixon Evening Telegraph, he was a civil service employe at Camp Grant.

The Klines, their son, Robert, and their new daughter-in-law returned to Dixon last evening from a two-week stay in the south.

A Thought For Today

And every meat offering, mingled with oil, and dry, shall all the sons of Aaron have.—Leviticus 7:10.

Jealousy doth mock the meat it feeds on.—Shakespeare.

Mr. Ickes Must Have Cooperation

Harold Ickes, petroleum conservator for the federal government, has issued some suggestions on how gasoline may be saved, particularly in the east. Among other things, he wants governors of these strategic states to arrest motorists whose cars smoke as though they were burning soft coal.

We strive to help Mr. Ickes. It is our duty to call attention to a few items he overlooked. In the nation's capital are some scores of thousands of bureaucrats who oughtn't to be there. They ought to be back in Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Wisconsin and other states where they used to live. We except our Illinois bureaucrats. They are a vital part of the nation's business. All others can go. Take them and their cars out of Washington and the seaboard would be swimming with oil.

Or, Mr. Ickes might leave these people at their jobs and on the payrolls, but simply move their swivel chairs to Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and other points where oil is produced. There they would have plenty of oil and they would at the same time be closer to the grassroots, so to speak.

We suggest a new alphabetical agency:—OPSA. Office for the promotion of sailing automobiles. There is a heap of good wind going to waste. Automobiles could be equipped with jibs, booms, topsails, topgallant mains'ls, four sheets to the wind, or whatever seafaring folk call them. We wouldn't know. Heave Ho, my hearties! Pull in your binnacles and keel-haul your scuppers, there's a fourmaster truck half a point off the port (or is it Sherry) bow! Avast, you barnacle, you tacked just when I was going to tick!

If we are slightly confused in our marine nomenclature, it is because there is no OPSA.

Well-Worn Treadmill

DeWitt Mackenzie's column one day last week presented a significant suggestion that we are about to hear of full-scale war efforts being made by India. We believe Mr. Mackenzie is not addicted to wishful thinking. Further, he has logic on his side. He has not only logic, but the experience of thousands of years of efforts by this war lord and that to dominate the earth. The recipe is simple. Build up a war machine; attack nation after nation; rob them, eating the fruits of conquest in the meantime, and then collapse.

Hitler had to conquer the buffer states in order to get at France. In order to hold France he must subdue England. In order to keep the British from attacking him through the Balkans, he had to conquer the Balkans; the same goes for the north countries. In order to protect his country while making an all-out attack on England, he had to attack Russia. When he has conquered Russia (if he does) he will face a new enemy—India. India has about 400 million population, more than twice that of Russia. The Indians are not great fighters, but to police 400 million inert natives, all of them artists at passive resistance, is a stupendous task, as the British have learned.

But suppose Adolf does eventually conquer India. He then faces China, and ultimately Japan. Hitler is on a treadmill. Less than 25 per cent of Germany's population of 80 million is available for policing purposes. A quarter of 80 million persons cannot control 800 million humans. If China is added to the list of victims, the total population to police would be 1 billion 300 million.

Helping Hand and Mailed Fist

Priorities needed for the building of a $45,000,000 steel mill for Brazil are going to be provided.

That underlines deeply the contrast between United States and nazi policies. The United States is going to some pains to help build up a new industry in Neighbor Brazil, an industry that may even eliminate some of our own present exports of steel products to Brazil. The nazi plan is to deindustrialize conquered countries, making them mere hewers of wood and drawers of water for a European industry completely centralized in Germany.

Is the U. S. policy foolish? We don't think so, in the long run. We believe we have the most to gain from the development of neighbor countries, in the making of them independent of Europe as well as ourselves. We believe that all of the American countries should go froward together; that all will be better off so than if one prospers at the expense of all the others. On that line, contrasting so strongly with the nazi "new order," we place the American chips.

Can a single letter contribute strongly to the defeat of nazism?

There are forces in Britain which believe it can; there are evidences cropping up here and there throughout Europe which suggest that it may. "V" stands for "Victory." It also stands for "Victoire," the French equavilent. Somehow the custom sprung up of chalking that single letter on sidewalks and walls, penciling it on posters, even tracing it in the mud on German cars. The thought is to create a universal sign of eventual victory, and flaunt it before German eyes in every conquered country.

The British radio is encouraging this practice throughout Europe, and adding the Morse code for V, three short signals followed by a long one. That's universal in all countries. Call your waiter in the restaurant by tapping that signal, urges the British radio.

Fantastic? Surely. But wasn't there a king once, Belshazzar, who was considerably disturbed by writing on a wall?

Wouldn't it be nice if it took as long to spend money as it does to save it?

Some people are fenced off from success by their own railing.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By Paul Mallon

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, July 22—Sit down and get acquainted with the man who is making the American army. You have heard his name but you have not met him often in headlines, because he is not a glamour-guy of statecraft or politics, but a somewhat humorless efficient soldier.

General George C. Marshall, third most important figure in the United States today along with Roosevelt and Knudsen, is an extraordinary Chief of Staff in practically all respects. He comes to work at 7:30 A. M. before cabinet officers get out of bed, goes for lunch to his home at Fort Myer across the river in Virginia, while other officials are grabbing a sandwich. His day is generally over at 5 P. M. and then he, an infantryman, goes horseback riding for exercise. That is his life. He has no intimate friends, no cronies, no Marshall set". He does not even have an aide de camp. He had one, Colonel Adams, but Adams has been ill for some time and Marshall has never replaced him. He is not a West Pointer, does not fly a plane himself but flies to army inspections around the country.

His top desk of the army is usually clean. Flanking his office are three deputy chiefs of staff and Colonel Ward, secretary of the general staff. They sift and condense everything that must be passed on to him. Nothing over a page in length is allowed to go in to Marshall and then only concerning the most important matters. His deputies make most decisions.

This office routine is enough to underscore Marshall's clear-cut, cold, emphatic, efficient personality.

In conversation he is pleasant and amazingly frank. Thus he gets along well with Congress and the press. His press conferences frequently cause newsmen embarrassment because he talks too freely. He told reporters off the record about the message Roosevelt sent to Congress asking the first billions for defense four or five hours before it came from the White House. Similarly he gave the newsmen a private advance tip on his shakeup of officers. In both instances, of course, he was allowing them to prepare themselves for sensational breaks so their hasty handling of the news later would cause no public misunderstandings.

Marshall's genius in tactics is what brought him to the attention of the late General Pershing and his present position. At St. Mihiel, he moved 820,000 men in 14 days (with equipment, horses and mules) around in the rear of the lines and into the Meuse-Argonne without the Germans becoming aware. It was the best tactical maneuver of the war. Pershing called it "a stupendous and delicate task". Marshall then was elevated to Pershing's staff and later Pershing recommended him to be Chief of Staff.

Strongly democratic in his military ways, Marshall dislikes the German methods. He has, for instance, refused to adopt the nazi strategy of centralizing control of task forces for specific military ventures in the hands of a single young officer (like the German third-dimensional system under Keitel.) This country will never allow a military commander to supercede elected heads of state, he contends.

There is dispute as to whether he is sufficiently respectful of the German mechanized methods. His argument has always been that the mechanized units are merely striking forces to prepare the way for vast quantities of infantry. Also he has not favored a separate air force.

But he is urgently trying to build up both forces, and is not hidebound in the usual army style. Realistically he has shattered tradition in order to shake off the general "blimps" of the army, and the colonels and majors who can barely rise from their chairs. He is doing it democratically by giving them a secret trial, shifting men according to their temperaments and ability without regard to political pull. He is clearly trying to get the most vigorous officers with the best qualities of leadership into command of the troops.

As for himself, he says he may not be able to walk all day with a pack on his back, but he promises "to ride a horse with any of you". He will ride a democratic army into unprecedented American efficiency.

(Tomorrow — The No. 2 man Knudsen.)

Careful Study of Pastures Urged to Prevent Poisoning

Urbana, Ill., July 22 — Costly plant poisoning of animals in many Illinois areas may be prevented by a careful study of the pastures and fields to determine the presence of poisonous weeds, according to animal pathologists of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

If poisonous plants are found, preventing loss of animals is a problem of pasture and animal management. If plant poisoning develops, prompt assistance from the veterinarian is essential for its diagnosis and treatment, the pathologists said.

It was explained that some plants cause death in nursing calves, while visible symptoms are not observed in the cows. The symptoms include incoordination, pain, difficult breathing, walking in circles, blindness and inability to stand. Poisonous plants may kill calves in a few hours.

Assistance in identifying plant specimens is available through the agronomy department of the University of Illinois. Properly labeled specimens may be sent to the department by parcel post or delivered in person for identification.

Occurrence of plant poisoning varies in different seasons, the pathologists explained. The fact that losses from plant poisoning have not occurred in certain pastures is no guarantee that the pastures are free from such plants or that plant poisoning losses may not occur. On the other hand, poisonous plants have been recognized in certain pastures for many years before animals were poisoned.

Since such poisonous plants as whorled milkweed and deadly nightshade may grow in hay fields or open pastures, it is even important to examine the hay fields before cutting the hay in order to determine the presence or absence of poisonous weeds. If hay containing poisonous plants is cut for winterfeeding, symptoms of plant poisoning may occur in animals during the winter months. Hay purchased for feeding purposes should likewise be examined to eliminate the danger of plant poisoning, the pathologists said.

"Some time at eve when the tide is low
I shall slip my moorings and sail away
With no response to the friendly hail
Of kindred craft in the busy hay.
In the quiet husn of the twilight pale,
When night stoops down to embrace the day
And voices call in the water's flow,
Some time at eve when the tide is low,
I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

Though purple shadows that darkly trail
O'er the ebbing tide of the unknown sea,
I shall fare me away with a dip of sail
And a ripple of waters to tell the tale
Of a lonely voyager sailing away
To mystic isles where at anchor lay
The craft of those who have sailed before
O'er the Unknown Sea to the Unseen Shore.

A few who have watched me sail away
Will miss my craft from the busy bay;
Some friendly barks that have anchored near—
Some loving souls that my heart held dear
But I shall have peacefully furled my sail
In moorings sheltered from the storm and gale.
And greeted the friends who have sailed before
O'er the Unknown Sea to the Unseen shore".

People's Column

There seems to be a reduction in the number of billboard ads for the distilled liquor in particular. The brewed beverages are still using some but of a much reduced type, largely type appeals to use this or that brand. Also, the cautioning signs of various groups admonishing the traveler against mixing alcohol and gasoline are increasing generally. Many localities have attained elimination of these signs advertising various alcoholic beverages through community sentiment. It only takes a little pressure and public concern to clean up any evil. If two or three citizens will just take the lead, there are always others who will join such a crusade once it is started.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER IN CONVOY

BY A. W. O'BRIEN

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: For a long time, the men stand at their lifeboat posts before the order to return to quarters is issued. Rollins reviews in his mind events and clews relating to the murder of Captain Tees, and always Joan Davaar seems to enter the picture. He determines to see Miley again, starts out from his cabin at night to find the lieutenant. On the way he sees a figure behind a passageway curtain and dives for it. After a brief tussle, he jerks to his feet, finds he has been wrestling with Miley.

CHAPTER VIII

"WHAT'S the idea, Harry, playing hide-and-seek?" puffed Rollins.

Lieutenant Harry Miley rose slowly, ruefully shaking an arm. "Well, there's no doubt about what you're playing—and you play rough!"

A sudden silence fell upon them.

"Why were you hiding behind the curtain?" snapped Rollins.

Miley hesitated a second. "I might ask why you are prowling around this side of the ship at this hour?"

"That's easy. I was coming over to have a chat with you."

Miley laughed outright. "Okay, Gregory, that settles it. I'll—unless that I was attempting to play sleuth and hide myself here in the hope of spotting anything unusual."

Rollins asked another question. "But why choose this deck in particular?" His voice slowed to a deliberate tempo. "You weren't watching for me by any chance, were you?"

Miley didn't answer. Instead, he beckoned towards the cross-passage. "Let's go along to your cabin and have that chat you wanted."

In the cabin, Rollins faced Miley squarely. "How about answering the question?"

"I will if"—Miley put emphasis on the words—"if you tell me about last night. Just exactly what were you doing just before the lifeboat alarm sounded?"

Rollins felt ice water running down his spine, but he gambled: "I had been unable to sleep and was lying in my bunk reading. Suddenly I heard a rifle shot from somewhere above, followed by a second. I threw on some clothes and was about to dash out when the lifeboat alarm sounded."

Miley nodded slowly. "You get a clean ticket on that—from me at least."

MILEY lighted a cigaret.

"But that still doesn't explain one thing," Rollins said.

"What?"

"Just why you were apparently

From the captain's bridge, officers constantly watched the sea for signs of trouble.

resigned to stand for hours, perhaps all night, behind the curtain. If I had been pulling something funny it's hardly likely that I would be slipping around corridors when I knew the whole ship was on the watch for something."

Miley shrugged. "I was playing a hunch, that's all. You'll notice a stairway from 'A' deck comes out a slight distance from where I was hiding."

Miley leaned forward. "I was wondering, Rollins, if that nurse would be sneaking downstairs to see you. After all . . ."

Rollins slashed a right cross that caught Miley squarely on the side of the face. He pitched sideways off the chair and landed on all fours.

The ship gave a bad lurch to starboard, and Rollins went slightly off balance. Miley slipped into a crouch and rushed him. A hard left upper cut caught Rollins squarely on the chin. Miley sank a right in the midriff, and Rollins clinched.

"Break clean, Big Shot!" Miley growled into the other's ear.

Rollins pushed him away, his face white with pain.

A savage right to the heart dropped Rollins to one knee. Miley stepped back.

"Let's call it quits, Greg," he panted, "I didn't know you were so sweet on the girl, or I would have phrased myself a little more delicately. You took a wrong implication—I was wondering if she was taking you into her confidence or not, and thought I might overhear something . . ."

ROLLINS rose slowly and sat on the end of his bed. "C'mon, Miley, there's no use to parry legal thrusts now—out with it!"

"Well, she has been reported three times for being on deck after 'Lights Out.'"

"Nothing serious about that—I suppose she just wanted some air."

Miley shrugged. "Yes, that's possible. But she has also been seen on several occasions with binoculars studying the Morse messages sent by light flashes from the battle cruiser commanding the convoy."

He paused but Rollins said nothing.

"And, finally, another nurse told me this Davaar girl has been acting queerly. A stranger to all of them, she has kept to herself for the most part, but what bits of conversation they get out of her at the table would indicate that she knows very little about nursing. You seem to be her sole friend on board and . . ."

Rollins looked down at his bleeding knuckles. "And what?" he asked in dull tones.

"And I had hoped that you might be able to help me out. I have kept my suspicions from the O. C. because they are admittedly shallow, but there is a question of duty. What I wanted to know from you, Rollins, is whether she has ever given you any hints as to her background . . . Why she has kept to herself . . . W she may have seen during those jaunts on deck . . . Where she came from . . ."

Rollins shook his head. "I can't help you there. She never discussed herself."

Miley seemed actually relieved. He smiled and stuck out his hand.

ROLLINS stood motionless, staring at the door. There was a hard glint in his eye. He had gone in search of Miley to find out one detail, and their strenuous session together had given him the answer.

Rollins was apparently the only person on board ship who had seen the miniature light flashes from "A" deck last night. His suspicion about a light being involved in the Tees murder was apparently unshared by Miley or anybody. The sentry who had reported the light on that first night had been left with the opinion somebody had been sneaking a smoke.

There was only one thing to do. The next night would find him hidden in a lifeboat close to that busy spot on "A" deck. Either he'd get the murderer or the murderer would get him. This time the game would be for keeps!

New Association of Illinois Sportsmen Is Being Organized

Resigned President of Federation Advises Osborne of Move

Springfield, Ill., July 22—(AP)—Charles H. Skinner of Olney, who resigned as president of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs 10 days ago after a disagreement with some of the organization's directors, informed state Conservation Director Livingston E. Osborne today that a new sportsmen's organization is being formed.

Skinner said his disagreement was with a "clique" among the federation's directors "that was organized to embarass your administration of the department.

"Many clubs have withdrawn from the federation because of the activities of this clique which has not fostered better cooperation between the department and sportsmen", Skinner wrote in a letter to Osborne which he made public.

Pledges Cooperation

"You may know that there is a movement now started for these clubs who are interested in conservation and not political activities to organize an Illinois Conservation Council which will carry on the work of raising game and cooperate with the department in your efforts to give us more fish and game and a high type of law-enforcing investigators and inspectors".

Skinner's resignation culminated a dispute with a faction of the federation's directors led by H. Ray Myers of Decatur, former president, over the Olney man's support of a proposal by Osborne and Robert L. Hunter, president of the Civil Service Commission, to nullify a civil service list of prospective game wardens who took examinations just before the end of the Democratic administration.

The state conservation and civil service officials planned to substitute a list based upon a new examination.

Ray Robinson Victor Over Sammy Angott by Decision Last Night

Philadelphia, July 22—(AP)—They were calling Ray Robinson the lightweight division's clean-up hitter today as plans were started to match Harlem's skinny skyrocket with Chicago's Davey Day in the next step on his sleep-making parade.

The Dusky Dynamiter from New York punched out a slashing clean-cut decision over one-half of the world lightweight championship in Sammy Angott before a crowd of 14,500 fans in a non-title tussle at Shibe Park last night, and immediately the older inhabitants dubbed him "the next champ".

He can't get the other half of the crown for a while yet. That is held by Lew Jenkins, the Texas thumper who is sanctioned as boss by the New York Commission and who has a date to meet Angott in New York's Madison Square Garden October 3 to clear up the up-to-now laughable lightweight follies, which were started when the N. B. A. took Lou Ambers' title away a couple of years ago.

Lively Lady Victor in Chicago-Milwaukee Race

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—The historic Mackinac Cup belonged today to Otto Dreher, whose Lively Lady is the 1941 winner of the annual Chicago-to-Mackinac Island yacht race.

The speedy sloop, racing under the burgee of the South Shore Yacht club (Milwaukee), took top honors in the Universal division yesterday by finishing 15 minutes and 20 seconds ahead of Warrior, entry of Commodore Victor Milliken, Chicago Yacht Club.

Lively Lady, also the 1941 winner in the Universal division, posted an elapsed time of 45 hours, 35 minutes and 28 seconds.

The Warrior's time was 45 hours, 50 minutes and 48 seconds.

Riggs Goes After Fourth Seabright Title With a Win

Seabright, N. J., July 22—(AP)—In the expert opinion of Bobby Riggs, the player who wins the men's singles championship in the 54th annual Seabright tennis tournament will go on to capture the national title at Forest Hills—and the little Chicagoan aims to do just that.

Somewhat of a forgotten man in big-league tennis since he lost the U. S. crown last September, Riggs is steaming along nicely in his comeback campaign. He's aiming at winning the Seabright challenge bowl, duplicating the feat of little Bill Johnston.

"All of the strs are here, and they're all trying hard", said Bobby yesterday after his impressive first-round win. "There'll be no punches pulled, and the fellow who comes out on top should get the necessary lift to carry him through the nationals".

When Riggs conquered Frank Kovacs in last year's dramatic five-set final, he became the second player to retire the Seabright challenge bowl, duplicating the feat of little Phil Johnston.

Bobby figures Kovacs again will be the toughest man in the field, and ranks Frankie Parker and National Champ Don McNeill right behind the clowning Californian though the seeded order is McNeill, Riggs, Parker, Kovacs.

Riggs won handily yesterday over J. Upshur Moorhead of Rumson, N. J., was the only domestic seeded player to see action in the men's field.

Amateur Boxers Take Over Red Wing Stadium

Rochester, N. Y., July 22—(AP)—Red Wing stadium will resound tonight with the thud of leather as the nation's top-ranking amateur fighters collide in eight 3-round bouts at a "tournament of champions".

Golden Gloves champions, coached by Paddy Kane of Chicago, will attempt to repeat last year's conquest of Amateur Athletic Union titlists, squired by Johnny Papke of Cleveland.

The card, with Golden Gloves contestants listed first, included:

126-pound: Phil Brown, Gillespie, Ill., vs. Francis Leonard, Taunton, Mass.

Illinois Trustees to Name Athletic Board of Control

Meet in Chicago Today; Adams Wants Former Senator Picked

BULLETIN

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—University of Illinois trustees by vote of 5 to 2 today elected a new board of directors of the athletic association. Seven members were chosen.

The following faculty members were named:

R. B. Browne, director of university extension, director of the summer session and associate profesor of education.

Fred B. Seely, professor of Theoretical and applied mechanics.

Leslie E. Card, professor of poultry husbandry.

M. T. McClure, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Science and professor of philosophy.

The following alumni members were named:

Waldo B. Ames, Chicago insurance broker.

C. W. Vail Jr., Chicago attorney.

Frank H. McKelvey, banker and trust officer of the First National Bank of Springfield.

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—President A. C. Willard and the University of Illinois trustees gathered in Chicago today to consider the personnel of a new athletic board of control and appointment of an acting athletic director.

The president was expected to make recommendations to the trustees for the athletic board. The old board resigned in a group a week ago after football coach Bob Zuppke had been rehired for one year and Athletic Director Wendell Wilson had been ousted.

Wilson's contract was extended one year, but he was given a leave of absence for that period at the end of which his connection with the university will be terminated.

Clifford Recommended

Former State Senator W. E. C. Clifford of Champion disclosed yesterday that trustee Homer Mat Adams of Springfield had recommended him to President Willard as a member of the new athletic board. Clifford was a member of the athletic board in 1938 when the Zuppke-Wilson feud first attracted the attention of the public.

Clifford made public a letter to Adams in which he said that Wilson's treatment at the hands of the trustees is "beyond the comprehension of proper ethics and sound management". He asserted further that President Willard "in the entire faculty can't find two professors that think Zuppke should stay on".

Evansville and Cedar Rapids Continue Hot Contest in Three-Eye

(By The Associated Press)

Two six-hit mound performances enabled Cedar Rapids and Evansville to continue their hot battle for first place in the Three Eye League.

Evansville pacesetters defeated Moline's crew on Frank Kilmer's six-hit pitching job, 6 to 4, after spotting the tail-enders three runs in the first frame. Evansville settled the outcome with four runs in the fifth.

Cedar Rapids blanked Madison's slipping crew, 9 to 0, on Bob Reynolds' six-hitter. The Raiders rushed across three runs in the second and added two more in the third.

Paul Andrews pitched Waterloo to a 6 to 3 decision over Clinton in the only other game scheduled. The victory boosted Waterloo two games and a half ahead of Moline and only three games back of Madison in sixth place.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Philadelphia — Ray Robinson, 136½, New York, won decision over Sammy Angott, 136½, Louisville, Ky. (10). Milt Aron, 153, Chicago, stopped Al Nettlow, 148½, Detroit and U. S. Navy (7); Jimmy Tygh, 133¼, Philadelphia, outpointed Allie Stolz, 131, Newark, N. J., (10).

Louisville—Corp. Mike Raffa, 125, Fort Knox, Ky., and Pittsburgh, knocked out Jimmy Maddox, 130½, Oklahmoa City (6).

Cincinnati — Ezzard Charles, 162, Cincinnati, stopped Al Gilbert, 159, New York, (6).

Newark, N. J.—Norman Rubio, 147, Albany, N. Y., outpointed Milo Theodorescue, 149, Rumania (8).

New York — Aldo Spoldi, 140, Italy, defeated Guillermo Puentes 137, Columbia, South America (8)

Pittsburgh — Tommy Yarosz, 153, Monaca, Pa., won decision over Sammy Secreet, 149, Cecil, Pa., (8).

New York — Yussel Goldstein, 151, New York, stopped Bill McDowell, 156, Dallas, Texas, (5).

THE SMARTER GENERATION

"Like dad, like son" may work out some day to lend Billy Herman, Jr., in the National League, but if so, it won't be exactly like, according to present indications. They'd hand young Billy the second base job on a platter if he wanted it, in honor of his father's stellar keystoning with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The star slugger of the Baby Budds, Junior League team of New Albany, Ind., 14-year-old "Billy Himself" chooses left field as his spot instead. Infielding is a tough racket, his dad discovered, so young Billy is not making the same mistake in choosing his lifework.

Heads Up and Head First

St. Louis Cardinals show National League rivals how to run bases. They go in head first a la Pepper Martin and Frank Frisch. Johnny Hopp steals third here with such enthusiasm that Umpire Lee Balanfant has to change decision. Hopp overslides, takes hand off bag and is tagged by Cookie Lavagetto of Brooklyn.

Swimming Contest for Boy Scouts at Rochelle Saturday

Members of the Dixon Boy Scout troops will participate in the Ogle-Lee- district swimming meet Saturday, July 26 at 3 o'clock at Spring Lake pool in Rochelle, local Scout leaders have been advised. The meet will include the following events: relay team of four members; breast stroke, each troop to have two entries; carry, any style. Suuject must weigh within ten pounds of rescuer and each troop may have two teams of one rescuer and one subject; back stroke, two entries, one man each per troop; flutter board race, each troop may have two entries of one man each per troop; diving, four dives by each contestant, three compulsory and one voluntary.

Any Scout who is 12 to 17 years of age and who has been registered for at least 30 days may participate. Troops are urged to begin holding troop swim meets at once from which to select their contestants.

There will be two classes of Scouts in the meet. Class A will be for Scouts weighing 110 pounds or over. Class B will be for Scouts weighing 110 pounds. No Scouts may enter more than three events including diving. Entry blanks have been furnished every Scoutmaster throughout the Blackhawk area and these should be completed and turned in to the local chairman of the Scouting activities or to the field executive, four days before the swim meet is scheduled.

Rock Falls Semi-Pros Beat Davenport Maroons

Kewanee, Ill., July 22—(AP)—Waukegan's brilliant semi-pro baseball team, Johnson Motors will face the Palmer House All-Stars of Chicago, defending champions tonight in the feature battle of the state championship tournament.

Each team has won its only appearance in this meet. Two defeats are necessary for elimination. The Andover Swedes and the Benda Coals of Chicago, each of which already has lost a game, will meet in the second game.

Howe's All-Stars of Rock Falls ushered the Davenport Maroons to the sidelines last night, 9 to 1. Ralph Keagen yielded only three hits in handing the Iowans' their second loss.

Joliet Schlitz registered their second tourney decision by defeating the Tri-County All-Stars of Cooksville, 8 to 12. Cooksville now has split two games.

VAUGHAN WILL STICK TO 3-BAGGERS

Test of a star is pressure. In 9 years in the National League, Ark Vaughan's career as a great hitter featured 3-baggers instead of homers when he hits one far. In the All-Star Game with the pressure on, Arky met the test by hitting homers instead of triples, becoming the first star who ever hit 2 homers in one All-Star game.

Speed afoot helped Arky in his triple-thumping specialty. A stone bruise on one foot had been bothering him for a couple weeks in late June. He hit homers instead of triples in the All-Star game to save his foot.

Only 2 men have ever led the National League in triples in 3 different years—a couple of Pittsburgh shortstops, Honus Wagner and Arky. In one way you can't blame Arky for preferring triples to homers. They are luckier for him. Last time he hit 2 home runs in a National League game, he was on the losing side, too. It was May 13, 1937, at the Polo Grounds, N. Y. Maestro Hubbell gave Pittsburgh 6 hits. All Arky's pair of PG homers accomplished was to make the score 5-2 instead of 5-0.

Shoe production in the U. S. for 1941 is expected to exceed 400,000,000 pairs.

CRABBY'S COURAGEOUS COMEBACK

Sometimes there's a big story in one line of type, in this case the top line of the National League batting averages. Estel Crabtree's pinch-hitting for the St. Louis Cardinals posted his name up there with .370 for 22 games on the first anniversary of his operation last July at the Genesee Hospital, Rochester, N. Y. It was no corn-cutting, that operation. It was "serious", the type that sometimes spells finis to the patient's career, the removal of a kidney. In Crabby's case it spelled the start of a new deal, a great comeback that landed him in the big leagues and right at the top of the big league batting averages.

Indians Get Final Chance to Stay in Race; Pick Feller

Three Games With Yanks This Week May Settle American Race

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

A week ago the big question in the American League was whether the New York Yankees would sew up the pennant in their remaining games in the west. They did.

Now the question is whether they will turn the "race" into an utter rout or let the vanquished drag along in pain a while longer.

The bombers won 11 out of their 13 contests in a triumphant swing through the western half of the circuit and have won 34 of their past 40 in a tremendous spurt that has dwarfed the efforts of all the other clubs.

As the spotlight swung back to the east today the Yankees were 14 games in front of the Boston Red Sox, 15½ ahead of the Chicago White Sox and 17½ on top of the Detroit Tigers, the defending champions.

Only the Cleveland Indians, seven games back in second place, have even the remotest hope of overtaking the pacemakers and they are going to be given their last chance in a three-game series in New York today, tomorrow and Thursday.

Feller After No. 20

Feller was to go to the mound today in quest of his 20th victory. Being the pitcher he is, the odds always are in his favor and he may get it. He has beaten the Yanks three times and lost once to them this year.

If he should lost again, then Cleveland might as well kiss the boys goodbye.

The scenery shifts in both leagues this week, with the National League action moving into the west.

The Brooklyn Dodgers stayed behind yesterday to clean up some unfinished business in the only game of the day in either loop. But instead of improving their position at the top of the senior circuit the Dodgers dropped an 8-3 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates and headed away from home last night a chastened and disconcerted outfit.

The Dodgers will open their tour at Cincinnati and won't reach St. Louis for another "crucial" series with the Cardinals until next week.

Fischer, Crawford Divide Honors at Sunday Trap Shoot

It was "squads up" and ideal weather at the Dixon Airport traps Sunday afternoon. High guns who powdered, and would-be's who manage to claim a chipped one, attended and enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

William (A. H.) Fischer and George Crawford divided high gun honors with a 24 out of 25. Dr. H. J. McCoy who has been going strong all season registered a 23 high. The veteran sportsman, Charles Heckman and Joe Unger, scored 20 and 18 respectively. Earl Antoine, prominent sportsman of Amboy, on his only try registered 21.

Howard E. Tompkins to whom much credit for the revival of local trap-shooting should be given, was on hand to clerk the shoot. During the afternoon he and Joe Unger settled an old score. Tompkins coming through by the margin of one break. Mrs. Joe Unger performed a creditable job of scoring and participated actively in the shoot. The contestants fired 25 shots at 16 yards, the scores being as follows:

Fischer, 24-22; Crawford, 24-21; McCoy, 23-19; Antoine, 21; Heckman, 20-19; Tompkins, 19; Unger, 18; Sullivan, 18; Huyett, 17-17; Ransom, 16-14-14; Hackbarth, 16.

Auto Race Driver Goes to Court to Get $670.95

Indianapolis, July 22—(AP)—Floyd Davis of Springfield, Ill., co-driver of the winning car in the 500-mile race here last Decoration Day, says he still has $670.95 of his cut of the $26,475 first prize coming to him—and is suing to get it.

He filed a complaint in Marion Superior court yesterday to collect the money from Lou Moore of Indianapolis, owner and builder of the speedster.

Davis said Moore agreed to pay him 35 per cent of the car's winnings. He drove the first 71 of the 200 laps in the race, the suit set out, and Mauri Rose of Indianapolis finished.

The Springfield driver said his share of the prize money should be 71-200 or 35 per cent, or $3,-288.01. He declared Moore had paid him only $2,617.06.

Moscow

Bucharest (Rumanian) and Helsinki (Finland.)"

Moscow's First Raid

It was Moscow's first raid of the war.

Nazi pilots said that 12 big explosions shook the Kremlin district, in the center of the city, and that fires spread over a huge area southeast of the Moskva river. East of the Kremlin, 20 fires were reported.

The Germans said the entire region of the Moskva bend, site of communist party headquarters and power plants, was aflame.

Russian officials said at least 200 nazi bombers struck at the capital, but that night fighters of the Red air fleet and thundering barrage of anti-aircraft fire downed 17 planes and prevented all but a few from getting over the city.

"Several private dwellings were set afire and a small number of persons were killed or wounded", a soviet communique said. "The attempt should be considered a failure".

New Tension Arises

Meanwhile, new tension arose from a flurry of rumors that a Japanese military move was imminent.

The London radio said all reports indicated that "big developments" were ready to erupt and that "a large-scale mobilization is proceeding throughout Japan . . . Reservists are called to the colors . . . Lorries and horses are requisitioned".

A British spokesman said frankly that continued reports of probable Japanese demands on French Indo-China were "disturbing, particularly after cabinet changes" in Tokyo.

"It is worth noting", he added, "that Yosuke Matsuoka, who assured the British ambassador last month that reports of Japanese territorial demands on Indo-China were false, no longer is a member of the government".

Matsuoka, who personally negotiated a Japanese-Russian neutrality pact, was dropped from his post of foreign minister in a cabinet shake-up last week.

Red Armies Still Hold

On the Russo-German war front Moscow reports said that Russia's Red armies were still holding doggedly in the main theaters of the 31-day-old struggle.

A soviet war bulletin gave this picture of the main battlefront:

"During last night, stubborn fighting continued in the Pskov (Leningrad front) Polotsk-Nevel and Smolensk (Moscow front) and Novograd Volynski (Kiev) directions".

In all these sectors, the Russians have been fighting bitterly and apparently without losing noticeable ground for four days.

The soviet communique also reported that a Russian tank unit had crashed through the nazi forward wall in an undisclosed sector and attacked German communications and supply lines.

New Type of 'Tin Hat' Adopted by U. S. Army

Washington, July 22—(AP)—American soldiers soon will be wearing a new style, dome-shaped steel helmet that resembles in many respects those worn by German army troopers.

After lengthy field tests, the war department announced an initial order yesterday for nearly a million. They will displace the current basin-shaped model made familiar by the World war A. E. F.

The new helmet is actually a two-in-one head covering. It contains a liner made of fibre which will be used as a field hat to substitute for the present jaunty field or overseas cap.

Tests by the infantry board at Fort Benning, Ga., showed the new style "tin hat" gives greater protection from spent rifle and machine gun bullets and shell splinters than the old type. The new helmet weighs about two and one-half pounds, or about three ounces more than the present type, and is made of tougher steel.

The initial mass order went to the McCord Radiator & Manufacturing Company, Detroit, which received a $3,215,370 contract.

Plane Production of World is Estimated

New York, July 22—(AP)—The authoritative magazine, American Machinist, estimated today the United States and Great Britain were producing 32 per cent more airplanes a month than Germany and that Russia was running close to the German production mark.

"World production of planes, according to best available estimates", said the magazine, "is around 8,000 planes a month, divided thus:

"Germany, 2,500; Russia, 2,000; Britain, 1,800; United States, 1,500; Japan, 300; Italy, none except parts; and small amounts in British dominions and non-German Europe".

The observatory seismograph recorded the impact when an airplane crashed into Lick Observatory, Mt. Hamilton, Calif.

was desirable to assure the British of obtaining maximum value.

Adequacy Uncertain

Whether one loan will be adequate to meet all British needs was not stated. Morgenthau said Britain's obligations to U. S. manufacturers at the first of the year amounted to between $1,300,000,000 and $1,400,000,000 but he could not estimate how much this had been reduced in the six months since then.

The loan agency statement said that collateral for the loan fell into three categories:

Securities of 61 United States corporations listed on the New York Stock Exchange. These were said to have a total present market price value of $205,000,000.

Unlisted securities of 46 United States corporations. The estimated value of these securities was put at $115,000,000.

The capital stock of 41 British-owned United States insurance companies estimated to have a total net worth of more than $180,000,000.

"Big Developments"

throughout Japan and requisitioning of horses and lorries indicate "big developments are imminent."

(In Shanghai, a Japanese army spokesman admitted that Japanese reservists living in the occupied areas of China had been called, but said this was merely for training. Further restrictions on travel throughout North China and Manchoukuo, which borders Siberia, also were reported.

(An authorized British source asserted in London that continuing reports of probable Japanese demands on French Indo-China were disturbing, "particularly after cabinet changes." He cited the removal from the cabinet of Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who "assured the British government last month that reports of Japanese territorial demands in Indo-China were false."

(Oriental observers recalled Japanese reports of a British-Chinese military agreement, denied in both the war capitals of Chungking and London, preceded Japan's 1940 military and economic penetration of French Indo-China.

Domei, Japanese news agency, asserted in a report datelined Hongkong that Chinese forces in Yunnan and Kwangsi provinces, Free French units of General Charles De Gaulle and British native troops in Malaya were prepared to go into the French Oriental country.

(An invasion from Malaya would require either land passage through Thailand. Indo-China's western neighbor, or a long voyage across the Gulf of Siam from the Malay peninsula.

National Aluminum

Giants, if they present any aluminum article at the game.

Lubbock, Texas, officials ordered a likeness of Hitler set up on the courthouse lawn to furnish a target for contributors who were invited to use their aluminum contributions as missiles.

The scrap metal will be used in making parts for airplanes, tanks, battleships and other defense materials.

ILLINOISIANS RESPOND

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—One contributor here left an artificial leg; a small boy handed over an ice cube tray and then wondered "what will ma say?" and there were lots of cocktail shakers, hair curlers and a profession of pots and pans.

All of this was in the name of national defense as Illinois pushed its drive to collect 1,000,000 pounds of old aluminum by next Saturday night.

The drive was launched yesterday throughout the state and in several localities it was marked by house-to-house appeals, civic demonstrations, etc.

In Chicago it was estimated that some 40,000 volunteers were on the hunt for the defense-precious metal. High school students, Boy Scouts and others participated.

Junk Firm Donates

In Pekin Mayor J. Norman Shade announced that Ted Kahn, president of the Illinois Iron & Metal Company, contributed the scrap metal firm's entire supply of scrap aluminum.

In Springfield, Governor Dwight H. Green urged all state employes to deposit castoff utensils in a pile on the Capitol grounds near the Archives Building.

A motion picture theater charged "one pot" admission to a performance and turned proceeds over to the Springfield collection of aluminum.

Sangamon County Sheriff Harry Eielson and John W. Kapp, mayor of the Capital City sent deputy sheriffs and policemen to residences to collect the metal upon telephoned requests.

Congress' Leader

those inducted in the future would have to remain for the duration of the emergency.

Some senators have talked also of a resolution declaring a national emergency and at the same time permitting draftees to waive a restriction which now prohibits their use outside the western hemisphere, although Roosevelt has not requested relaxation of this restriction.

Taft Has New Plan

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) proposed today that congress limit the service of selectees, reserves and National Guardsmen to 16 instead of the present 12 months.

Taft laid this proposal before the senate military affairs committee after a group of witnesses, most of them opponents, had testified on the effects of pending proposals to extend indefinitely the period of service for citizen soldiers.

Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) directed that Gen. Marshall be queried as to the effect of Taft's plan, which the Ohio senator said would provide for the release of 75,000 draftees from the army each month, with none serving more than 16 months.

As outlined by Taft, the proposal would provide the army with 1,272,000 trained officers and men at all times. The remainder of a 1,948,000 total force would be made up of those undergoing preliminary training.

As new selectees were brought in at the rate of 75,000 a month, he said, the reserve would be increased by that number.

Gen. John McAuley Palmer, retired, told the committee today it was his opinion that Adolf Hitler in order to accomplish his aims, must "conquer or encircle the United States."

Minister Is Opponent

The Rev. A. J. Muste, representing the Fellowship of Reconciliation, opposed the legislation on the grounds that if "decent pay" were offered, sufficient army volunteers could be obtained without what he said would be the breach of an "impiled promise" that selectees would not be retained more than a year.

Joseph Leib, who said he was one of the founders of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, told the committee that "you may be able to force this measure down the throats of the young men of this nation, but I don't think you will build an army whose heart and soul will accompany their guns."

Chairman May (D-Ky) announced that the house military committee had decided to begin public hearings tomorrow on a series of proposals dealing with extending the service term. General Marshall is to be the first witness.

Truck Driver Held by Jury Probing Deaths of Five in Accident

Harrisburg, Ill., July 22.—(AP)—A coroner's jury last night recommended that Dale Moore, 25-year-old truck driver, be held pending a grand jury investigation of the deaths of five persons who were fatally burned after Moore's truck collided with their car near here last Thursday night.

A charge of manslaughter already had been filed against Moore by Deputy Sheriff Boyd Langford, brother of Mrs. Clarence Paul who was one of the victims. The other victims were her husband, their sons, Sammy and Loren, and Mrs. Lillian Paul, sister-in-law of Clarence Paul.

Germany Retaliates Against Bolivia

Berlin, July 22.—(AP)—The German government, as reprisal, demanded today that the Bolivian charge d'affaires in Berlin leave Germany within three days and also protested sharply to La Paz against the Bolivian action in declaring the German minister persona non grata.

(The Bolivian government, acting to suppress asserted plans for a nazi coup Saturday ordered the expulsion of German Minister Ernst Wendler. Bolivian sources set no time limit but Wendler reported his departure was desired "by July 22.")

The remaining legation personnel on both sides was not affected.

Diplomatic relations were unbroken.

The protest criticized the Bolivian action as "in defiance of all the rules of international intercourse."

The War Today

must be available now from the recent mobilization to support such a movement. In due course the Red line likely will move to the east of the capital, abandoning western Russia to the enemy. That line perhaps will follow roughly the line of the Volga river.

However, such a great withdrawal needn't represent an irreparable disaster, or anything like it. As already indicated, if the Bolshevists can retain their mobility and make an orderly withdrawal in the face of heavy German offensives, we shall find the defenders facing west when the nazis have consolidated their position in Moscow.

There would seem to be no reason why the bolshevists shouldn't then continue the war indefinitely, even into a term of years. Their man power is inexhaustable and their resources vast.

We have seen the really great fighting qualities displayed by the soviet soldiers, and we mustn't overlook that the Russian is traditionally good on the defense. He was good against Napoleon, against the British in the Crimea, and in the World War within the limits of his possibilities.

Now that the Red troops have given us an exhibition of what they can do, there is no doubt in my mind that they are better than those of the czar. This leads one to expect much from them as the great battle swells.

Chicago Opera Season Is Cut to Five Weeks

Chicago, July 22—(AP)—Chicago opera goers will have a five week season this year, beginning Nov. 10.

The Chicago Opera Company's board of trustees announced yesterday that 32 internationally-famed operatic stars would appear in the 20 performances.

Last year a six-week season was offered and the board explained that the cut was in line with a nation-wide movement to make opera, as nearly as possible, pay for itself.

TO STAY AT RANTOUL

Washington, July 22—(AP)—The headquarters and headquarters squadron, Air Corps technical training command, organized at Chanute Field, Ill., will remain there permanently, the war department announced yesterday. The announcement was made in connection with permanent station assignments of the 28 recently formed air force units which have been placed on the active list.
